

SAYS THE RECTOR BEAT HER. IS HE THE REAL ABDUCTOR?

Rev. Hugh Maguire's Wife Suing for a Limited Divorce.

Congregation and Vestry Represented at the Trial.

Hundreds of people crowded about the doors leading to Judge O'Connor's City Court, Brooklyn, this morning, eager to get choice news to hear the story told in the suit of Mrs. Maria C. Maguire, a pretty brunette, for a limited divorce from her husband, Rev. Hugh Maguire, rector of the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, at Clinton and Langue streets.

More than one-half the crowd were women, and the congregation and vestry of the church were liberally represented.

Mrs. Maguire charges her husband with cruelty. She says she beat her, and finally placed her in an insane asylum. He alleges that she has hallucinations, and that she ran away with a man named Douglas about eight years ago.

They were married Dec. 31, 1876, and according to the woman's story, have led a lively life since. They have separated several times, the last time being in November last. Mrs. Maguire says that about a week before she left her husband the last time, he attacked her, throwing her across the room very violently. She then decided that she could stand his abuse no longer and made up her mind to sue for a divorce.

Mrs. Maguire alleges that several years ago her husband beat her and then ran away, and finally placed her in the Hartford Asylum. After she was discharged from the institution and came back to live with him, he made another attempt to have her incarcerated, but failed.

Her husband and father took her to Bellevue Hospital, she says, but after remaining there several days, the physicians let her go, saying she was "the sanest one of the party."

In regard to her elopement, she says that Maguire threatened to send her to the asylum, and she was driven by desperation to leave him and so away with Douglas. She admits having spent a couple of nights with Douglas in New York hotel.

Mrs. Maguire went on the stand again this morning and was cross-examined by Lawyer Patterson, counsel for Maguire.

"I did not love Douglas before we went away," she said. "I learned that he was a married man when I went away with him. I did not expect to be his wife, and I gave no thought of what was to become of me."

"I have never gotten over the feeling of fear of going to the insane asylum. I left Douglas because I was afraid he would put me in an asylum."

"What did you think of him when you took him to the asylum?"

"He told me he was taking me out against the doctors' advice. The doctors, he told me, said I would be a raving maniac in less than a month. I have been two years and have not become a maniac."

On redirect examination, Mrs. Maguire said that after she left the asylum her husband took her to a home on Willow street, and that he had evidently told the inmates that she was crazy, as they kept away from her.

Rev. Hugh Maguire, the defendant, was next called.

"Times," he said, "my wife would attack me so that I would have to put my hands up to protect myself, and when she couldn't get near enough to me she called me a vile name."

WESTERN RAILWAY TROUBLES.

269 Miles of the Nickel Plate Road Tied Up.

Citizens Give Practical Support to Strikers on the St. Paul Line.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—All the conductors, railway telegraph operators, engineers and firemen on the Chicago & Erie Railway (Nickel Plate) struck at 10 o'clock last night, their result being a tie-up of 269 miles of road, extending from Chicago to Marion O.

The strikers, numbering about six hundred, belong to the Order of Railway Telegraphers and Order of Railway Conductors. The managers had been aware of the impending trouble for several days, but hoped to avoid it.

At 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon the following despatch was received by General Manager, Tucker, dated at Huntington, Ind.:

To A. M. Tucker: We have been appointed a committee with instructions to notify you that, believing that bad faith has been shown on the part of the Company in dismissing C. C. Scott at the expiration of his term of office, we have decided, unless he is reinstated before that time all the members of the Order of Railway Conductors and Telegraphers in the employ of this Company will retire from work at 10 o'clock from today, Jan. 21.

(Signed) G. OLSEN, A. M. JOHNSON, D. J. JOHNS, G. B. CURRAN.

General Manager Tucker did not renege his promise and the strike took place.

A despatch received from Huntington, Ind., at 10 o'clock this morning, says the train dispatchers had quit work and the road was virtually tied up.

Twenty-five Pinkerton men were sent there yesterday morning from Chicago. The despatchers said that trouble was expected.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 21.—It is reported from Hammond, Ind., and other points on the Chicago and Erie that engineers on the road, upon receiving intimation of the train dispatchers' strike, had their trains on sidings and banded the streets.

THE ST. PAUL STRIKE. Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Jan. 21.—The St. Paul Central and Northern Railway men and conductors are on strike for the place of strikers on a checking-up station met with an unlooked for reception at a number of stations near here, and at Springfield, after they had taken possession of the office, a delegation of citizens ran them out and barred the doors, and at Stone City a rope was stretched across the track and a card stepped therefrom during the night.

No men but A. C. Comstock will be allowed to work here.

Mr. Comstock is the old operator. All along the line from Marion to Rabin Junction citizens have boycotted the new men and will not sell them meals.
